

SUMMARY: The document below is the copy in the Cecil Papers of the will, dated 7 October 1558, of Anne (nee Bray) Cobham (c.1510–1558), eldest daughter of Edmund Bray (d. 18 October 1539), 1st Lord Bray, son and heir of John Bray of Eaton Bray, Bedfordshire. The testator's father was heir as well to much of the property of his childless uncle, Sir Reginald Bray (c.1440 – 5 August 1503), Treasurer to Henry VII.

Sir Edmund Bray's younger brother, Sir Edward Bray (d.1558), married firstly, Elizabeth Lovell, daughter and coheir of Henry Lovell, esquire, of Sussex; secondly, Beatrice Shirley, daughter of Ralph Shirley, esquire, of Wiston, Sussex; and thirdly, Jane (nee Browne), widow of Sir Francis Poynings, and daughter of Sir Matthew Browne (d. 6 August 1557) of Betchworth Castle, Surrey, by Frideswide Guildford.

The testatrix' mother was Jane Halighwell, the only daughter of Richard Halighwell (d. 24 July 1506), esquire, of South Pool, Devon, son and heir of Sir John Halighwell, Admiral of the Fleet, and Anne Norbury, 'one of the co-heiresses of the Boteler lords Sudeley'. Jane Halighwell was heir to her paternal grandfather, and to her maternal grandfather, Sir John Norbury (d.1504) of Stoke D'Abernon, Surrey. See McKeen, supra, pp. 7, 567; and the will of Richard Halighwell, dated 8 May 1508 and proved 8 November 1508, TNA PROB 11/16/183.

The testatrix' ancestor, Sir John Norbury (d.1414), a retainer of Henry IV, appears in Shakespeare's Richard II. See the ODNB entry, and French, George Russell, Shakspeareana Genealogica, (London: Macmillan and Co., 1869), p. 50 at:

* Dorothy Bray (1529/30 – 31 October 1605), who married firstly Edmund Brydges (d.1573), 2nd Baron Chandos, by whom she was the mother of Giles Brydges (1548–

1594), 3rd Baron Chandos; and secondly the courtier William Knollys (c.1545–1632), 1st Earl of Banbury. See the ODNB entries for Edmund Brydges and William Knollys; and the entry for Dorothy Bray at:

<http://www.kateemersonhistoricals.com/TudorWomenBo-Brom.htm>.

* Ellen Bray.

* Frances Bray (c.1535 – 27 May 1592), who married Thomas Lyfield (d.1596), esquire. Their daughter, Jane Lyfield (d. 23 January 1619), married Sir Thomas Vincent (d. 14 December 1613), by whom she had a daughter, Jane Vincent, who married Sir Matthew Browne of Betchworth in Dorking, Surrey. Sir Matthew Browne was one of the trustees of Nicholas Brend (d. 12 October 1601), who leased the ground on which the Globe theatre was built by lease dated 21 February 1599 to Richard and Cuthbert Burbage, Will Kempe, Augustine Phillips, Thomas Pope, John Heminges, and William Shakespeare of Stratford upon Avon (see TNA REQ 4/1/2). For Richardson, supra, Vol. I, p. 414; and the will of Sir Matthew Browne, dated 2 August 1603 and proved 19 April 1608, TNA PROB 11/111/273.
