

SUMMARY: The document below is the inquisition post mortem taken at Southwark on 17 May 1599 concerning lands held by Thomas Brend. The inquisition states that Thomas Brend died on 21 September 1598, and that his heir was his only surviving son, Nicholas Brend (1600-1659), who is stated to have been 37 years of age or more at the time of Thomas Brend's death. Although Thomas Brend did not disinherit his son, Nicholas, he added a note to the will stating that:

I have stricken out my son to be one of my executors in consideration that he did marry without my knowledge or consent.

For information concerning Nicholas Brend's marriage to Margaret Strelley, see Berry, Herbert, Shakespeare's Playhouses, (New York: AMS Press, 1987), pp. 84-5.

Three months before the inquisition post mortem was taken, by lease dated 21 February 1599, Thomas Brend's son, Nicholas Brend, had leased the ground on which the Globe was built to Richard Burbage (1568-1619), Cuthbert Burbage (1564/5-1636), William Kempe, Augustine Phillips (d.1605), Thomas Pope (d.1603) John Heminges (1566-1630) and William Shakespeare (1564-1616) of Stratford upon Avon (see TNA REQ 4/1/2):

for the said gardens and grounds whereupon the said playhouse & galleries were afterwards builded were demised & letten by the said Nicholas Brend by his indenture of lease tripartite bearing date in or about the 21st day of February in the 41st year of the reign of the late Queen Elizabeth [=21 February 1599] unto Cuthbert Burbage, Richard Burbage, William Shakespeare, the said Augustine Phillips, Thomas Pope, the said John Heminges, one of the said defendants, and William Kempe, to have and to hold the one moiety of the said garden plots and ground to the said Cuthbert Burbage and Richard Burbage, their executors, administrators & assigns, from the feast of the birth of Our Lord God last past before the date of the said indenture [=25 December 1598] unto the end & term of 31 years from thence next ensuing [=24 December 1629] for the yearly rent of seven pounds & five shillings, and to have & to hold the other moiety of the said garden plots & grounds unto the said William Shakespeare, Augustine Phillips, Thomas Pope, the said John Heminges, one of the said defendants, & William Kempe, their executors, administrators & assigns, from the said feast of the birth of Our Lord God then last past before the date of the said indenture unto the said full end & term of 31 years from thence next ensuing for the like yearly rent of seven pounds & five shillings.

In the inquisition below the Globe is described as:

one house newly built with a garden to the same appertaining in the parish of Saint Saviour's aforesaid in the county of Surrey aforesaid in the occupation of William Shakespeare and others.

For the will of Thomas Brend, see TNA PROB 11/93, ff. 270-1. For the will of Nicholas Brend, see TNA PROB 11/98, ff. 325-6. For the will of Judith Brend, see TNA PROB 11/93, ff. 298-9.

According to this website, Judith Brend conveyed property left to her in her father's will to her step-brother, Nicholas Brend, in 1598:

http://books.google.com/books?id=M_9vQwAACAAJ&dq=inauthor:%22Judith+Brend%22&hl=en&ei=tM1wToCCN4HiiAKsvOTfBg&sa=X&oi=book_result&ct=result&resnum=1&ved=0CC4Q6AEwAA

Conveyance by bargain and sale from Judith Brend to Nicholas Brend

Judith Brend's interest in "The Pomegranet" in Bridge St. alias New Fish Street, in the parish of St. Margaret; and "The Peacock", Candlewick Street, in the parish of St. Mary Abchurch, London.

Nicholas Brend's wife, Margaret (nee Strelley) Brend was a cousin of the courtier John Stanhope (c.1540-1621), 1st Baron Stanhope, and his sister, Lady Jane (nee Stanhope) Townshend Berkeley (see Berry, p. 85).

Lady Jane (nee Stanhope) Townshend Berkeley (d.1618?) was first married to Sir Roger Townshend (d.1590), who was closely connected to the Howards and also to Oxford (see particularly Oxford's transactions involving Castle Rising, and Townshend's account of the 'street brawl' of 1582 on this website). After Townshend's death, Lady Jane married Lord Henry Berkeley (1534-1613), whose first wife had been Oxford's first cousin, Katherine Howard, the sister of Oxford's executed first cousin, Thomas Howard (1537-1572), 4th Duke of Norfolk, whose life Oxford had tried to save.

Oxford was the brother-in-law of Sir John Stanhope (d.1611), the nephew of Margaret (nee Strelley) Brend's cousin, John Stanhope (c.1540-1621), 1st Baron Stanhope. Sir John Stanhope (d.1611) married Katherine Trentham, the sister of Oxford's second wife, Elizabeth Trentham (d.1613). For the wills of Sir John Stanhope (d.1611) and his wife, Katherine (nee Trentham) Stanhope (d.1621?), see TNA PROB 11/117, f. 356 and TNA PROB 11/137, ff. 434-6. For the will of Lady Jane (nee Stanhope) Townshend Berkeley (d.1618?), see TNA PROB 11/131, ff. 185-9.

That Oxford's brother-in-law, Sir John Stanhope (d.1611), was close to Margaret (nee Strelley) Brend's cousins is shown by this bequest in his will:

To my honourable loving aunt, the Lady Bertley [=Berkeley], and to my two most dear uncles, the Lord Stanhope and Sir Michael Stanhope, though a small, yet a token of my true love, and as my present estate will admit, to each of them I give a twenty shillings' piece of gold to make a ring of to wear for my sake, who did ever truly love and honour them.

It is thus evident that Oxford's second wife, Elizabeth Trentham, was related by marriage to Nicholas Brend's wife, Margaret (nee Strelley) Brend, and it is possible that this relationship may have had something to do with Nicholas Brend's lease to William Shakespeare (1564-1616) of Stratford upon Avon of the ground on which the Globe was built.

As indicated in the inquisition post mortem below, Thomas Brend owned the inn called the Star in Bread Street. In TNA C 54/1682, mm. 10-11, Nicholas Brend's tenant of the Star in Bread Street is identified as Peter Jefferyes. It is possible that Nicholas Brend's tenant, Peter Jefferyes, was related to the poet John Milton, who was born in his father's house only a few doors away from the Star. From the Oxford Dictionary of National Biography, available online:

Milton, John (1608–1674), poet and polemicist, was born at 6.30 a.m. on Friday 9 December 1608 in the house at the sign of the Spread Eagle, Bread Street, London, and baptized in nearby All Hallows Church on 20 December, the third child of John Milton (1562–1647), and his wife, Sara, nee Jeffrey (c.1572–1637).

For the burial of Peter Jefferyes, Nicholas Brend's tenant of the Star in Bread Street, see Bannerman, W. Bruce, ed., The Registers of All Hallows, Bread Street, and St. John the Evangelist, Friday Street, (London: Harleian Society, 1913), p. 170, available online:

1601 Nov. 19. In our church in the aisle next to the Salters' Chapel, Mr Peter Jefferye of this parish, dwelling at the Star in Bread Street. He was now one of the churchwardens of this parish, and died at the end of the first year of he being in the same place or office.

The Star in Bread Street is mentioned in the anonymous play of Sir Thomas More:

ROBIN. Faith, Harry, the head drawer at the Miter by the great Conduit called me up, and we went to breakfast into St. Anne lane. But come, who begins? in good faith, I am clean out of practise. When wast at Garrets school, Harry?

HARRY. Not this great while, never since I brake his ushers head, when he played his scholars prize at the Star in Bread-street.

For Peter Short's publications while at the Star in Bread Street, see Pulver, Jeffrey, A Biographical Dictionary of Old English Music, (New York: Burt Franklin, 1927, reprinted 1969), p. 429, available online:

Short, Peter. A Tudor music printer who published a number of highly important works which are of the utmost interest to the musical historian. Working in London (at the sign of the "Star" in Bread Street Hill), he issued Anthony Holborne's Citharn Schoole, Dowland's First Booke of Songes, Morley's Canzonets, the same writer's Plaine and Easie Introduction, and the Seven Sobs of a Sorrowfull Soule, etc. (all in 1597); Farnaby's Canzonets in 1598 and Cavendish's Ayres a year later.

Elizabeth by the grace of God Queen of England, France & Ireland, Defender of the Faith etc. to her escheator in the county of Surrey, greeting;

Inasmuch as Thomas Brend, esquire, who held of us in chief, hath departed this life [=“he has closed his last day”], as we have been informed, we command you that all the lands & tenements of which the same Thomas was seised in his demesne as of fee in your bailiwick on the day on which he died you do take into our hands without delay, & do cause the same to be safely kept until we shall thereupon otherwise command, and [+that] by the oath of good & law-worthy men of your said bailiwick, by whom the truth of the matter may be the better known, you diligently inquire how much land & tenements the foresaid Thomas held of us in chief both in demesne and in service in your said bailiwick on the said day on which he died, & how much of others, & by what service, & how much those lands & tenements are worth by year in all issues, & on what day the same Thomas died, & who is his next heir, & of what age, and the inquisition thereupon distinctly & openly made, under your seal & the seals of those by whom it was made, you do send to us in our Chancery without delay, & this writ. Witness ourself at Westminster on the second day of May in the forty-first year of our reign.
