

SUMMARY: The document below is the will, dated 23 September 1584 and proved 15 June 1585, of Philippa Tyrrell, whose father, Richard Tyrrell, included Oxford's step-father, Charles Tyrrell (d.1570), in an entail in his will.

FAMILY BACKGROUND

For the testatrix' family background, see the will of her father, Richard Tyrrell (d.1566), TNA PROB 11/48/375.

MARRIAGE

According to her father's will, the testatrix was intended to marry her father's ward, Robert Paris, son and heir of Robert Paris, esquire:

And whereas I have bought the wardship of Robert Paris, son and heir of Robert Parry [=Paris], late of Linton within the county of Cambridge, esquire, for Philippa Tyrrell, my youngest daughter, and already paid for him two hundred marks, being two hundred marks more behind as appeareth by writings touching the bargain of the same, I will and devise that if it happen my said daughter Philipp and the said Robert Paris to break off and not marry, that then the said Robert Paris to be valued at the discretion of my said executors towards the performance of this my will, and further I will and devise that whether my said daughter Philipp do marry the said Robert Paris or any other, that mine executors shall pay unto her at what time she shall be married four hundred marks of lawful money of England.

The testatrix' intended husband, Robert Paris, may have been the son of Robert Paris, slain October 1550 at Newbury, Berkshire. See the History of Parliament entry for Sir Thomas Cawarden (by 1514-1559):

Cawarden was also involved in several lawsuits. Among his papers there is a draft of a bill against one Philip Paris for stating that Cawarden was 'the principal at the killing of Robert Paris, gentleman', perhaps the Member for New Romney. The murder had been committed at Newbury, Berkshire, where Cawarden was steward of the King's manors, and in October 1550 John Cheyne II was presented for it but later pardoned: Cawarden was claiming damages of £1,000 for slander.

John Cheyne (b. by 1510, d.1567) of West Woodhay, Berkshire, was the son of Sir William Norris (d.1507?) of Yattendon, Berkshire, by his third wife, Anne Horne (d.1505?). Sir William Norris married firstly Joan Vere, daughter of John de Vere, 12th Earl of Oxford, secondly Isabel Ingoldsthorpe, and thirdly, Anne Horne. See Richardson, Douglas, Magna Carta Ancestry, 2nd ed., 2011, Vol. I, pp. 350-1. See also the History of Parliament entry for John Cheyne at:

<http://www.historyofparliamentonline.org/volume/1509-1558/member/cheyne-john-ii-1510-67>

See also Streitberger, W.R., The Masters of the Revels and Elizabeth I's Court Theatre, (Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2016), pp. 37-8 at:

<https://books.google.ca/books?id=uwh-CwAAQBAJ&pg=PA37>

Cawarden was steward of some of the king's manors near Newbury, Berkshire, and he appears to have used strong measures in putting down 'the Rebellions' there. One Robert Paris, gentleman, was killed. His brother, Philip, insisted that Cawarden was 'the principal at the killing', in response to which charge Cawarden prepared a bill for an action of slander against him.

See also the ODNB entry for Sir Thomas Cawarden (c.1514-1559):

He was a contentious figure in other ways too, . . . in 1550 suing Philip Paris for implicating him in the murder of Robert Paris, killed that year at Newbury.

For the Paris family, see Green, Everard, 'A Pedigree of the Ancient Catholic Family of Parys of Linton in the County of Cambridge' in Clarke, A.W. Hughes, ed., Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica, 5th Series, Vol. II, (London: Mitchell, Hughes and Clarke, 1916-17), pp. 123-6 at:

<https://archive.org/stream/miscellaneagenea2191bann#page/n263/mode/2up>

See also the will of Sir Philip Paris, dated 10 January 1558 and proved 20 January 1559, TNA PROB 11/42A/230.

The testatrix leaves a bequest to Mr Cotton, who may have been related to Thomas Cotton of Donnington, nephew of Sir Philip Paris, and one of the executors appointed in the latter's will.

The testatrix' will was contested by the testatrix' mother, Grace Wolley Tyrrell Calton and her husband, John Calton, against Anne Willett, wife of Edward Willett, who appears to have attempted to take administration of the testatrix' goods. For the court's decision confirming the testatrix' appointment of Grace and John Calton as executors on 15 March 1585, see TNA PROB 11/68/376.

LM: T{estamentum} Philippe Tyrrell

[f. 265v] In the name of God, Amen. The three and twentieth day of September in the year of Our Lord God one thousand and five hundred eighty-four, I, Philippa Tyrrell, gentlewoman, sick in body and of perfect remembrance, thanks be given to God, do make, ordain and constitute this my last will and testament in manner and form following:

First, I give and bequeath my soul to Almighty God, and my body to be buried in the earth at the discretion of my executors hereafter named;

And for my worldly goods I give, dispose and bequeath in form following:

First, I give and bequeath to my mother, Grace Calton, one little diamond ring and one jewel set with rubies, with all the choice of all my linen and woollen apparel to use at her pleasure;

Also I give and bequeath unto my father-in-law [=stepfather], John Calton, one lease with all my right, title and interest which I have or ought to have in the parsonage of Dullingham within the county of Cambridge;

Also I give to Mr Cotton one bunch [sic for 'brooch?'] of rock diamonds;

Also I give to Dorothy Charnelles two cawls, one gold, another silver, three neckerchers, one pair of white satin sleeves;

Also I give to John Claye, the writer hereof, one camerick band and a velvet cap;

Furthermore I will that my mother give unto Mrs English some of my apparel;

The rest of all my goods whatsoever here unspoken of (my debts paid and funerals discharged), I give and bequeath unto my father-in-law, John Calton, and my mother, his wife, whom I make my true and lawful executors of this my last will and testament devised by me the day and year above-written. Witnesses: John Claye, Anne Brunkers and Margaret Curtes, with others.

NOTE: Latin Sententia diffinitiva, TNA PROB 11/68/376, not transcribed.